DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 2/19/2009 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-2, 16, 18, 20 and 29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Dalton (4,781,695). Dalton discloses a subcutaneous port (20) comprising a port corpus (40) elongated about an axis and comprising an inlet defining an opening at one end of the port corpus, an outlet having an outlet opening at a lengthwise opposing end of the port corpus, and a chamber defined therebetween, one of the inlet and the inlet opening comprising a first connecting member (see figure below) and one of the outlet and the outlet opening comprising a second connecting member (see figure below), the inlet opening and the outlet opening being the only openings of the port corpus in communication with the chamber, a septum (33), a removable septum retainer (35) comprising a third connecting member being removably engaged with the first connecting member so as to dispose the septum in a position to occlude the port corpus inlet opening, and a removable conus (31) extending along the axis, the removable conus comprising an inlet end having an inlet opening at one end of the removable conus, an outlet connector having an outlet opening at an opposing lengthwise end of the removable conus, and a channel extending therebetween, the removable conus inlet end further comprising a fourth connecting member (see figure below) being removably engaged with the second connecting member, wherein the port corpus inlet is canted inwardly along the axis of the port corpus, and wherein the port corpus, septum, septum retainer, and conus are engageable to form a port assembly having a substantially slender overall profile for implantation under the skin of an animal, and further comprising a catheter (32) connected to the conus.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 3-14, 21-23, and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dalton (4,781,695). Dalton discloses a subcutaneous port comprising most of the limitations recited by the applicant but fails to disclose the additional connecting members recited in the claims listed above. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include the additional members, since it has been held "...that mere duplication of the essential working parts of a device involves only routine skill in the art." St. Regis Paper Co. v. Bemis Co., 193 USPQ 8 (CA7 1977)." Furthermore, Dalton does not teach the step of implanting the port into a rodent. However, this limitation is deemed to be a matter of design choice as the applicant has not disclosed that the limitation solves any particular problem.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 19 and 24-27 are allowed.

Claims 15 and 17 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-29 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
